Keep your team safe and production flowing.

Whether you are currently running production at full capacity or gearing up ready to reopen, one problem is common – keeping staff safe, happy and healthy.

Whilst social distancing is the ‘new normal’, how does this work out practically?

Aside from production lines, high traffic areas such as entrances, canteens and locker-rooms need new measures to support the new distancing requirements. It is also important to make this highly visual for maximum impact and ease of understanding for everyone in the team. They need to know instantly if they are not conforming!

One simple method is tailored floor markings. Klipspringer has put together a library of engaging and effective floor graphics for you to use in all areas of your site.
